CENTRE COUNTY TROOPS WIN HONORS AT CAMP

Machine Gun Squadron Takes Second Place in Road March

BOYS IN FINE HEALTH

By Lieut. Herbert M. Beezer.

Camp Shannon, Mt. Gretna, July 30—Day by day we're getting better and better. Training of the Centre county troops is progressing by leaps and bounds and the Bellefonte outfits are holding their own with the best of them. Every day we are covering ourselves with dust, sunburn and glory. In the road march last Saturday the 52nd. M. G. Squadron took second place in the brigade, the 104th cavalry winning by the narrow margin of 5 points. So far the health of the squadron has been excellent, in fact high above the general average of the camp.

The morning routine usually consists of mounted drills and squadron maneuvers. In the afternoon the entire squadron goes to either the machine gun or pistol range. During the latter part of the week several sham battles are to be fought, the machine gun squadron to be broken up and attached to the various cavalry units taking part.

On Sunday the largest crowd ever seen at the camp started gathering as early as eight o'clock in the morning and cars of every size and description poured into camp in a steady stream from every direction. A huge field was designated for parking purposes and by noon was jammed full, the number of cars being estimated at 1000, and the total number of visitors at 5000. Those figures cover only the cavalry camp, and were an estimate made for the entire camp the figures would be unbelievable. Following are some of the guests at the camp from Bellefonte on Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Snyder Stover, Mrs. Willard Emenheizer, Mrs. Ambrose Smead, Mrs. William W. Hampton, Miss Margaret Flack, Mrs. Wallace Kerstetter, Mrs. Ralph T. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Haag, Morton Smith, Mrs. Gideon C. Payne, Miss Irene Gross, Gilbert Nolan, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Fannon, Mrs. Paul Fannon and son, Mr. and Mrs. James Fannon and daughter, Fred Love, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baney, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Watkins, Ralph and George Teaman, Bernard Kane, Clyde Ripka, Leona Morrison and Annabel Steer.

An unfortunate accident occurred in C Troop of the 103 Cavalry of Sunbury, on Saturday evening, when a young trooper was thrown from his horse and so badly injured that he died on Monday. The following day the most solemn and impressive ceremony took place when the entire regiment participated in a military funeral through the camp and over to the station. Every man in the camp stood with bared head while the funeral cortege passed with slow and measured tread.

To turn to lighter things—"Trump" the troop mascot fox-terrier, owned by Major Curtin, but who has attached himself permanently to Orrie Morrison, orderly bugler, has cleaned up every dog in the camp and is undisputed when he "struts his stuff" up and down the street. Orrie says "He don't mean maybe, either."

HOWARD MAN KILLED

Manning Casselberry Victim of Mine Accident.

Manning Casselberry, aged 54 years, residing nearby Howard, died in the Lock Haven hospital early Wednesday afternoon from injuries sustained in a mine of the Gorton Coal Mining Co., at Snow Shoe, a few hours previously. He was caught underneath a fall of rock and his back fractured.

The injured man was hurried to Lock Haven hospital but died a few minutes after being admitted. He is survived by a widow and several children. Burial will be made at Howard.

Thieves Stripped Car.

Paul Smith, who resides on the Harry Ebbs farm nearby Stormstown, was recently the victim of about the meanest bunch of thieves one could possibly imagine. He was driving a Ford toward Altoona, and when a short distance from Tyrone another automobile collided with his car with such force as to break some parts and render it useless. Smith got his car off the road and walked several miles to the nearest garage. Upon his return he discovered that thieves had stripped his car of everything that could be removed. All four tires, cushions, tools, etc., were gone. The car was litterally a wreck.

MANY AUTOS DAMAGED

Eight in Line Crash in Jam at Spruce Creek.

On Saturday evening Mrs. Maude Markle, of Altoona, driving a Studebaker car, and Mrs. Leitzell, of State College, crashed near the Spruce Creek club house. The Studebaker car was badly damaged and was towed to the Rossman garage. Mrs. Leitzell's car was driven away on its own power.

The next day, Sunday, within sight of the Spruce Creek club house, eight cars in a line figured in a jam. It all occurred in less than a half minute. It was on a straight stretch of road and the cars were following one another.

The first car was driven by a young lady, with a gentleman by her side. She halted the car quickly without giving notice to the large delegation following closely, so the eight cars jammed on.

Most of the cars were damaged but none of the occupants were injured. Mr. Homan's Oakland car fared the worst and had to be towed back to State College. While passing another car, near home, the fenders were torn away and the car otherwise marked by several dinges. Several arrests were made—but who pays the bill?

TROUT FISHING ENDED

Very Poor Season as Streams Were Not Good.

Trout fishing ends today and it was a poor season in Centre County, also apparently throughout the state from reports of anglers published at various times. The streams were not in good condition during most of the time and the catches were unusually small in number.

James Fox, a clerk in the Parrish drug store, reported the record catch getting a beauty that measured over 25 inches in length during the first few days of the open season. Mrs. William Bathurst, of Altoona, also caught a large trout but lacking about two inches to make a record. Both the large fish were caught in the deep water in Bald Eagle creek near the Potter-Hoy summer camp west of Curtin.

Henry Shultz, of Curtin, proved an able angler also but did not limit his fish to trout, catching many eels and cat-fish, as well as a number of suckers at a favorite spot which he says he will not advertise.

Kiwanis News.

The Kiwanis Club had one of its live wire meetings at the Bush House Tuesday noon at which the principal speaker was Prof. William H. Tomhave of the Penna State College on the subject of "Meat; its production and use in the U. S." that was instructive. John Love in a neat speech presented the club pianist, Miss Bernice Crouse, with a small purse from the Club to show their appreciation and regard for her efficient service on the eve of her going on her vacation. A new song was sung composed by Russell Blair that was catchy. Several visitors present one being Mr. Fiedler, of Seattle, a son of our former townsman James A. Fiedler, who at one time owned and published the Keystone Gazette. An invitation was received from Hershey to go to that place for a Central Penna. Club picnic on Thursday, the 31st, and about twenty signified their intention to drive there. The next meeting will be the quarterly ladies night and will be held in the evening at the Brockerhoff House Tuesday, August 5th, at 6:30 at which it is expected about 125 covers will be served.

Weekly Band Concerts.

Lovers of music are enjoying the weekly concerts held every Wednesday evening on the lawn at the rear of the Court House. The Associated Business Men of Bellefonte have spent a large sum in erecting a fine band stand and providing seats for ladies and children. The local I. O. O. F. band, under the management of Willis E. Wion, have purchased a beautiful Calliophone to be used in making the concerts a greater success than ever before. Singing, dancing, solos, and other side lines help to vary the program and make the concerts more pleasing. Something new and different every night. If you miss one night, you have lost a lot of enjoyment. Come with your friends and enjoy yourselves; everything just as free as the air you breathe.

Arm Fractured in Fall

John Diehl, 9 years old, a son of Mrs. Stella Diehl, of Rebersburg was admitted to the Lock Haven hospital on Saturday. He fell from an automobile a week ago and it has developed that the injuries he sustained were a fracture and dislocation of the left shoulder joint and a fracture of the left arm just below the shoulder.

BUSINESS MEN'S PICNIC PROGRAM LOOKS GOOD

Many Events Scheduled to Entertain Big Crowd

BOXING AND WRESTLING

The program for the Business Men's picnic, the next big event to be held at Hecla Park on Thursday, August 14th, is about completed except a very few minor details. The program looks good. All that seems necessary to make the gathering the big success it should be is fair weather. The committee has not, however, taken any chance with the weather man but has secured rain insurance for $1,200 to re-imburse them for the expense they have incurred in preparing for the entertainment of many thousands of folks from Central Pennsylvania.

Boxing and wrestling will be big features of the entertainment. There will be four bouts in the boxing tournament and one wrestling match. Another sports feature that should not be overlooked will be the battle royal by blindfolded colored gentry.

A Ford sedan, equipped and representing a value of $765, and a complete Sleeper Monotrol radio receiving set valued at $240, will be given away. The usual bathing, boating and ground privileges will be enjoyed while many novel contests, stunts, races, concessions, etc., will afford amusement throughout the day.

Music will be furnished by the Penn-Pat orchestra in concert and from 2—5 and 8—12 o'clock dancing in the pavilion. The Centre County League managers will also arrange for ball games between teams during the morning and afternoon. Altogether, the program indicates a full day of joyous activity.

The committee is composed of R. R. Blair, Willis Wion, Harry Murtorff, O. A. Kline, H. C. Yeager, John Payne and R. R. Owens.

NEW MACHINES

Titan Metal Company Will Increase Output.

The Titan Metal Company is having five large new machines installed, most of the machinery being already placed, which will greatly increase the output of this plant, one of our best industries. It could not be learned how many more men will be employed nor just when the new machines will be ready to place in operation. W. P. Selg, secretary of the company, when asked regarding the machines, made the following statement:

"At the present time we are not exactly sure just what capacity these new machines will be and what the additional tonnage will mean. Just as soon as we have this determined will be very glad to give you detailed information."

To Discuss School Problems.

The difficulties surrounding the operation of city and county schools from the standpoint of the superintendent of schools, will be threshed out by the superintendents themselves, with the aid of State Department of Public Instruction officials at the annual conference of superintendents to be held at the college during the week of August 11, the last week of the summer session at the college. Superintendents and their assistants in all parts of the state have been invited by college officials to take part in the conference. Similar meetings in past years have been regarded as very successful, since county school heads have been able to get any and all information regarding the proper management of their affairs according to new state laws.

Potato Blight Reported.

Late blight, one of the most destructive potato diseases, has made its appearance in Pennsylvania. The first occurence in the state was noted recently in a field near Johnstown in Cambria county. The season thus far, with its abundance of moisture and cool weather, has been ideal for the spread of the disease. It is probably present in many localities of the state at the present time. Plant pathologists at the Pennsylvania State College are urging continuous and efficient spraying, especially in wet weather, as the one means of warding off a destructive epidemic. More than 23,000 acres were sprayed last year with an average increased yield per acre of 58 bushels. About 4,000 farmers in the state found spraying the most effective means of lowering their cost of production and thus increasing their profits from "spuds" in 1923.

DOUBT STORY OF ATTACK MADE ON LOGANTON GIRL

Miss Ellen Womeldorf, 25, Gives Officers Wild Story.

MAKING INVESTIGATION

There was considerable excitement in Sugar Valley during the week-end when Clinton County officers were called to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Womeldorf, 3 miles east of Loganton, along the road, and were informed that the latter's daughter, Miss Ellen Womeldorf, 25, had been attacked by a burly negro, badly beaten and criminally assaulted. The officers got busy at once.

A negro was seen boarding a train at Mill Hall on Friday afternoon and, as the attack was said to have taken place that morning, word was sent along the N. Y. C. railroad lines to watch for the negro and have him arrested. He was taken into custody at Munson. He was kept in the Philipsburg lockup during Friday night and on Saturday morning was ordered released as the Clinton County authorities doubt the story told by the young woman.

Miss Womeldorf was found in bed when her parents returned home about noon on Friday after they had been picking cherries. The young woman had been alone at the house and was doing the family washing, she said, when she was attacked from behind by a negro who dragged her to a nearby shed. She told of having fought desperately with the assilant and of being struck on the head with the butt of a gun he drew from his pocket, after which she lapsed into semi-consciousness. When her parents found her, she was in a serious condition, suffering from cuts, bruises and shock. Her clothing was nearly all torn from her body.

The officers questioned her closely on Saturday, however, and were of the opinion, it is alleged, that she was the victim of spasm and worked in a "spell," similar to an ailment she was afflicted with several years ago, according to neighbors. Another reason which gives credence to the hallucination theory is that nobody has been reported who saw a negro in the vicinity of the Womeldorf home on Friday. Several other negroes were arrested in Williamsport for illegal train riding and were reported to the Clinton County authorities but they are going slow with making any arrests until they investigate more fully.

POULTRY MEETINGS.

Schedule Arranged for Culling and Caponizing Local Flocks.

The Centre County Farm Bureau in co-operation with H. D. Monroe, head of the Poultry Extension Department of State College, have planned a group of poultry meetings for next week. This is the season of the year that every poultryman should begin to cull out the boarders in order to get the maximum egg production this fall and when winter eggs are high. Besides culling, Mr. Monroe will take up, if desired, caponizing, housing, feeding and general care of the flock. The following is a schedule of meetings in different sections of the county, and it is hoped many people will take advantage of the demonstrations:

Tues. Aug. 5, 10 a. m., Peters Brothers, Stormstown.

Tues. Aug. 5, 1:30 p. m., A. C. Kepler, Penna Furnace.

Tues. Aug. 5, 4 p. m., S. P. Wasson, Shingletown Gap.

Wed. Aug. 6, 10 a. m., Chas. Heverly, Howard.

Wed. Aug. 6, 1:30 p. m., A. F. Showers, Unionville.

Wed. Aug. 6, 4:00 p. m., Thompson Henry, Martha Furnace.

Thurs. Aug. 7, 10 a. m., Hecla Poultry Farm, Mingoville.

Thurs. Aug. 7, 1:30 p. m., A. D. Smeltzer, Pleasant Gap.

Fri. Aug. 8, 10 a. m., Geo. Stover, (on M. O. Stover farm), Woodward.

Fri. Aug. 8, 1:30 p. m, J. V. Brungart, Rebersburg.

Fri. Aug. 8, 4 p. m., M. T. Zubler, Spring Mills.

Morrisdale Methodist Day

Morrisdale Methodist Day will be held this year in the beautiful Lakeside Park, near Morrisdale, on Thursday, August 7th. Music will be furnished by Morrisdale Miners' band, the Lakeside orchestra and the John Wesley chorus of the Morrisdale M. E. church. Meals will be served by the church women in park dining room at noon and during the evening.

BASEBALL NOTES

Bellefonte Team Going Strong in County League.

Bellefonte has one of the best baseball teams it has had in a long time. The players are enjoying clean sport and play well together, making splendid team work. Millheim and Centre Hall are fighting for second place, with Millheim leading. State College has been at the end of the list but is showing more pep.

Bellefonte defeated Centre Hall, 8—1, and Millheim won from State, 10—8, in the games last Thursday. On Saturday, Bellefonte worsted State, 5—1, and Centre Hall got a victory over Millheim, 5—3.

This Thursday, Millheim will play at Bellefonte and Centre Hall at State College. The fans expect a dandy contest this afternoon and it is predicted Millheim will fight hard to win. On Saturday, the games are scheduled as follows: Bellefonte at Centre Hall and Millheim at State College, the latter a double header.

The standing of the clubs is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Percentage
Bellefonte	15	3	833
Millheim	10	8	555
Centre Hall	7	11	389
State College	4	14	222

DIAMOND CHIPS.

State College presented the fastest and scrappiest team on Saturday. The game was a bitter contest all the way through.

Lose won his first pitching start of the league season on Saturday holding the enemy to four scattered hits. Tomco for State also pitched brilliantly.

Malone handled ten chances cleanly on Saturday and pulled the fielding feature of the day. He slipped and fell on Williams' grounder in the 7th, but threw from a sitting position to Martin who pivoted in a double execution.

Bellefonte's hits were not so numerous on Saturday but not a single one was wasted. Six hits were recorded and everyone figured in the run getting.

DEFENSE FOR PEACE

President Coolidge Consistent in His Plans.

The consistency in the plans of President Coolidge which has made him so many staunch supporters is well exemplified in his recent criticisms of those who would secure peace at any odds, even to misrepresentation. In his reply, President Coolidge said:

"I wish crime might be abolished; but I would not therefore abolish courts and police protection. I wish war might be made impossible; but I would not leave my country unprotected meanwhile. The defense test seems to me a means to assure the fullest efficiency to the extremely modest defense force our country maintains."

Recital Pleased Prisoners.

At the request of James H. Potter, aliss Lois Rishell presented a recital for the prisoners of the New Western Penitentiary at Rockview last Tuesday evening, repeating the program given at the M. E. church in Pleasant Gap on July 22nd. Miss Rishell was received with great enthusiasm which increased with every number of her repertoire and ended when she and her accompanist, Miss Vera Hile, were recalled at the close of the entertainment with tremendous cheers. Before she left the building, the chaplain secured her promise to sing at some morning service soon and to give another recital before returning to Boston in September. Many appreciative comments indicating the delight among the inmates were heard and scores were moved to tears during some of her songs. Her impersonation of a little boy and of an old-fashioned girl were especially happy ones while the range and sweetness of her voice together with clear pronounciation made her singing a treat long to be remembered. Next week she will appear at Snow Shoe and Boalsburg on August 5 and 7 respectively. She has also booked a number of other engagements for the coming month. Miss Rishell is a senior in Emerson College, Boston, and a daughter of Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Rishell, of Pleasant Gap.

Fire Insurance Adjuster Here.

For the first time since 1908 a general re-adjustment of fire insurance rates by the Underwriters Association of Phila. is being arranged here. For some time past a representative has been in Centre County gathering facts to be used in this adjustment. He is in Bellefonte this week.

Married in Cumberland

Among the marriage licenses granted recently in Cumberland, Md., appeared the following: Harold Russell Zimmerman Bellefonte, and Tessie Jean Watson, Snow Shoe; Claude Daniel Heaton, Millesburg and Mary Naomi Fisher, Bellefonte.

YOUTH IN COUNTY JAIL FOR HIDING REVOLVER

Seymour Stover Held as Material Witness in Musser Murder.

IS COMPLICATED AFFAIR

The gathering of evidence in the Musser murder case has been going on rapidly and a new development occurred during the week-end that is said to have very important bearing when Seymour Stover, 17 years old and residing on a farm near the Musser farm, was taken into custody by Sheriff E. R. Taylor. Sheriff Taylor also secured the revolver which had been hidden, it is alleged, after the shooting of William Musser.

A pair of blood stained overalls was also found on the Stover place. Stover, it is said, refused at first to disclose the hiding place of the revolver, whereabouts of which was learned by the sheriff but how is not disclosed. When handcuffed, however, and faced with certain evidence that the authorities knew what they were after, Stover broke down and said, "Maybe I can find it for you." Given an opportunity, he got a fork and soon uncovered the weapon, from its hiding place in the barn.

Blood stained overalls which Stover admitted to be his, were also taken into the custody of the sheriff and will be closely examined. Stover explained the presence of the blood, it is alleged, by stating that he had cut his hand some time ago (he showed a mark on his hand where it had been cut) and used the overalls in question to clean the blood from his hand.

Attorneys have been employed by Harry Musser, who has been formally charged with murder, as follows: Gettig & Bower, Spangler & Walker. Herbert Heaton, also charged with murder, has not employed counsel and seems to be depending on the statement he made. Seymour Stover, charged as an accessory after the fact, has employed no counsel so far as could be learned. Sheriff Taylor made the information against Musser and Heaton, charging them with murder and is, it is understood, prosecuting the case with all zeal, aided by District Attorney Arthur C. Dale, who still maintains that he cannot give any information at this time for, "reasons material to the Commonwealth."

CAMP KANESATAKE

Bellefonte Boys Have Opportunity of Camping There.

Camp Kanesatake, the Sunday school Training Camp, from Aug. 5th to 26th will be opened to the younger boys of Blair, Centre and Huntingdon counties, who are members of Sunday Schools or Y. M. C. A.'s and between ten and sixteen years of age. A recreation and woodcraft program will be conducted by Director Stephen S. Aplin assisted by J. Fred Pandel, of Burnham, who has been appointed physical director of the Bellefonte Y. M. C. A., and who will have the athletic activities under his direction.

The camp, comprising 306 acres, is beautifully situated about one mile off the state road between Spruce Creek and Franklinville. The camp is limited to 100 boys. Groups have been registered from Bellefonte, Alexandria, Williamsburg, Tyrone and Altoona districts and there are vacancies for about 25 more. The cost of camping, including board and lodging, is $6.00 per week. Iron cots with mattresses are provided, the boys to supply necessary clothing, which should include woolen blankets or comfortables.

Application should be made to Director S. S. Aplin, Franklinville P. O., Huntingdon Co., Pa., at least one week before arrival and one week's board enclosed with application.

Cow Mother to Triplets.

To a Holstein cow owned by Benjamin Ritter, Jr., of New Kingston, near Carlisle, Pa., goes the honor of being the first bovine in that section of the state to give birth to triplets. The cow, one of several registered Holsteins in Ritter's herd, gave birth to one male and two female calves. All three animals are normal and thriving.

Hospital Plans Approved

The board of trustees of the Centre County hospital at their meeting on Friday evening accepted plans of the architect for remodeling of the local institution and drawings will be made at once. It is said that work will start immediately after the drawings have been completed.

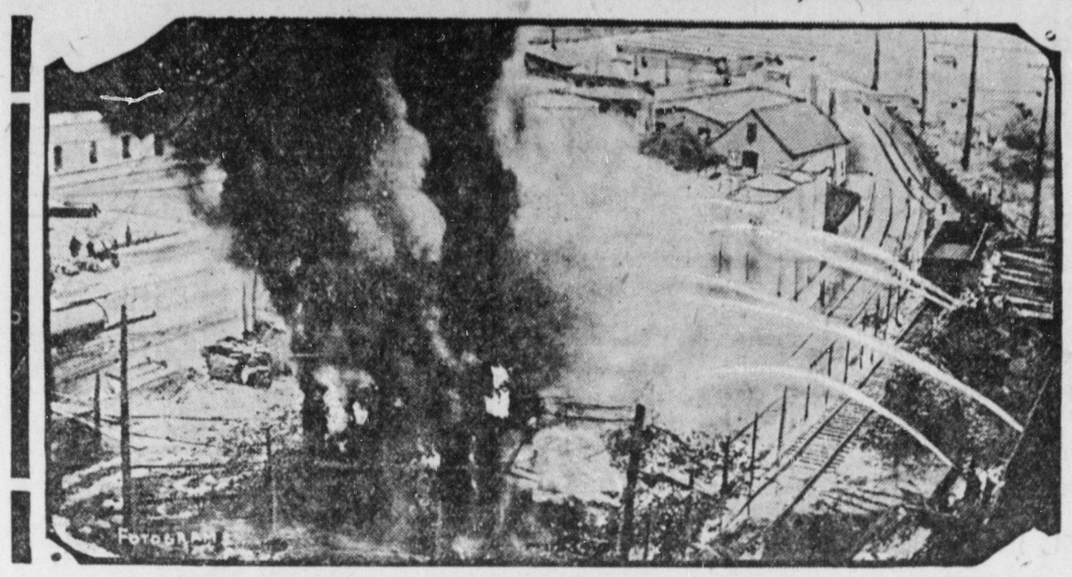
Oil Blaze in Heart of Columbus, Ohio



Firemen in Columbus, Ohio, had a hard fight on their hands when four 4,000-gallon tanks went up in flames that burned for eight hours. They diverted the blaze from a quarter million gallons of oil nearby, that would have meant destruction for a whole section if it had caught on fire. Unusual photograph shows firemen fighting blaze.

See Weak Points in Architecture

American Public Pays Little Attention to Art in Building, Say Experts.

Washington.—Weak points in national architecture were a subject of prolonged discussion at the architects' convention held in this city. The arguments were picturesque, but did not start any public debate whatever on the question of the builder's art.

This is said to be rather strange, inasmuch as the educated American likes to be on friendly terms with the arts. He has his own ideas about painting, literature and music. At the worst he knows what he likes, and at the best he has some technical knowledge and an innate sensitiveness which enable him to appreciate values. But he treats architecture like the proverbial red-headed stepchild. The poorest sort of oil painting is viewed as a work of art, but a building, unless it be a cathedral or a palace, is catalogued in the public mind only as a useful article.

In recent years architects have begun to urge that the public take an interest in their aims and achievements. They point out that so long as men live in houses architecture will play a more intimate part in their lives than any other art. The trouble is that until the public begins to regard its building as art it will learn very little about the technic of architecture; and yet until it knows something about the technical values it is not likely to take much interest in the artistic side of construction and designs. And there we have another of those vicious circles.

Roughly, a building can be judged by the educated layman according to common-sense standards of beauty, usefulness and appropriateness. A railway station that resembles a Gothic cathedral may be an efficient trainshed, it may be attractive, but most architects would feel that the combination of ideas involved is incongruous. There is no reason why Gothic style should be reserved for churches and college buildings, but because of the association of the Gothic with the beautiful old English cathedrals a bustling, noisy station is probably not the best sort of building for Gothic design.

Art vs. Usefulness.

Another example of unfitness is the building that is so rigidly artistic that it fails to be practical. The rooms, it may be, are drafty and badly lighted. The interior is poorly arranged for efficiency. Convenience has been sacrificed to effect, and the result cannot be termed fine architecture in the broadest sense.

With these ideas in mind, it is interesting to note a few of the high spots touched by the architects in their discussion of precedent. This is the subject which apparently worries the modern designer more than any other. Painters have their impressionist and cubist schools. Writers develop new and strange literary forms. But architecture clings to the classic models. In fact, it clings so faithfully that the question was raised at the convention as to whether or not many of our famous buildings are not frank plagiarism. What would we think of the artist who painted "Mona Lisa" for a millionaire, only changing it a bit to fit a given space in a library, or perhaps adding a note of red to tone in with the wall paper? But we think nothing of it if a new public building is a more or less faithful reproduction of the Parthenon or of some famous European palace.

Defense of the practice of imitation rests mainly on the argument that there is no American style of architecture and America can do no better than to adapt forms that are obviously beautiful and inspiring.

No architect believes in ignoring the fine work that has been done by the old masters. The most unconventional designers agree that they must draw on the ideas and technic of the great original designers of history. Their point is that in the Golden ages of creative art designers managed to evolve buildings that expressed the spirit of the people and the times. The Italian renaissance artists did not feel that the Greeks and Egyptians had thought out all the possible variations of construction and that a sensible man could do no better than stick to their models. Nor did those medieval builders shudder at the sight of structures that could not be labeled Greek, Roman or generally classic.

What the builders of American cities are criticized for is that they have so far done their best work in foreign styles, and that they have not succeeded in using those styles to evolve anything typically American for our typically American and Twentieth century structures.

W. R. B. Wilcox, an Oregon architect, reminded the convention that present-day buildings have not a great deal in common with ancient shelters: "Ancient races," he said, "did not have our schools, libraries, hospitals, banks, factories, nor our commercial buildings. As for houses, temples and tombs, probably only the last-named were used in the way we use them."

Automobile an Example.

He pointed out that the designers of buildings could learn some things about esthetic expression of America from the automobile industry. Makers of automobiles have not gone to the old civilizations for quaint and beautiful and impractical types of vehicles. He went on to describe an imaginary visit to an automobile plant such as we might have today if automobile designers had followed the methods of architects:

"On exhibition were a number of vehicles of historic design. They were advertised as the last word in automobiles. Among them were vehicles which looked for all the world like old Roman and Etruscan wagons, Italian barouches, German state carriages, French landaus, English coaches, Irish jaunting cars—all sorts.

"A salesman was explaining the difficulties met with in adapting a splendid reproduction of a Greek chariot to the necessities of an automobile; how concealment of the motor and provision of an invisible third wheel to take the weight borne by the tongue and horses in the original were strokes of genius. To objection of a possible customer that an arrangement which required one to stand while driving was uncomfortable the salesman replied that, although a seat would be a convehience, integrity of design proscribed its use—that a reputation for scholarly design was of too great value to be jeopardized by violated precedent."

The architects were more or less agreed that there is little prospect that a great American style in architecture will be developed in the immediate future. The builder's art at its best is more expressive of a community and an era than of the individual builder's personality. At present there is not enough unity in American traditions for any architect to express America in stone as the Athenian could express Greece. Each racial ingredient in the melting pot differs and each section of the country with its individual history and its individual natural conditions presents a different background for the designer to study.

The situation, however, is far from hopeless, all designers believe. Ralph Adams Cram told his fellow architects at the convention that in many American homes, colleges and churches precedent and tradition have been used as bases for real creative expression.

"In spite of plagiarism—or because of it," he said, "we all know perfectly well that there is more really good architecture being produced in America today than ever before, and far better than that of any other country in the world for the last 300 years."

Wage-Earning Urged on Would-Be Brides

Berkeley, Cal.—The best training for matrimony a girl can get is by procuring employment for a while, in the opinion of Miss Cleo Murtland, associate professor of vocational education at the University of California.

"As an apprenticeship for marriage," said Miss Murtland, "wage earning is an essential feature. Economic freedom of women is a determining factor in the length of the pre-marriage period, in the stability of the home and in its maintenance. The self-respect of a woman, as well as her position in the family, is determined in part by her ability to be economically independent. More and more the daughter, as well as the son, seeks employment as soon as school days are over."

Miss Murtland classified as the three distinct phases in a woman's development the time preceding marriage, the time of family responsibilities, and the time of middle age when she is released from these responsibilities.

She explained her views at a recent conference of educators. It was the conclusion of the conference that a girl should be educated both as a homemaker and as a potential wage-earner.

German Seeress Predicts Death of Industrialists

Munich.—Elsbeth Ebertin claims to know what is destined to happen in Germany in 1924-1927. Her prediction for this spring, made in February, included failure of banks, and death of several "very rich personalities belonging to the financial world," and the revelation of fraud on a large scale.

The deaths of Stinnes and Helfferich and the failure of the Neufville bank are pointed to by Frau Ebertin's friends as evidence of her ability to foresee the future.

200 Descendants at Picnic

Centralia, Wash.—Two hundred descendants of J. C. Davis, Rebecca Prince Tyrell and Samuel Layton, three of Lewis county's earliest settlers, attended the fourth annual reunion of the Davis-Prince-Layton association, held recently at Borst park in Centralia. It was the largest attendance in the history of the association.

POWHATAN'S SKELETONS UNCOVERED, IS THE BELIEF

Smithsonian Institution to Investigate Recent Discoveries That Promise to Be Important.

Washington.—The bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian institution will investigate in the near future what may prove to be two of the most important discoveries yet made of relics of the Indian tribes who roamed over the site of Washington at the time the first white man visited this section.

Both discoveries were accidental. The first was made by a farmer near Strassburg, Va., while plowing a field near Shady creek. He uncovered seven skeletons. At first he did not attach especial significance to this, because the field was near the battle ground of Cedar creek, in the Civil war, and it was assumed that the skeletons were those of slain soldiers. A famous Indian battle, however, was fought on nearly the same site, and further investigations showed that the bodies had been buried with ceremonies typical of the early Indian tribes.

Each body had been drawn up in a cramped position and thrust into the grave. Beside each skull was a jar, elaborately decorated with primeval religious symbols, which once had been filled with food to sustain the ghost in his cold passage between two worlds.

The second find was much larger and will be investigated first. The recent flood waters of the Shenandoah unearthed what is believed to have been an old Indian cemetery. The center grave, around which the others seemed to be grouped, contained one skeleton measuring seven and a half feet.

The last horse car left the streets of New York in 1917.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

Maj. Coupal New White House Physician

Maj. James F. Coupal of the Medical corps, United States army, is the new White House physician. He succeeds Brig. Gen. Charles E. Sawyer, who has resigned.

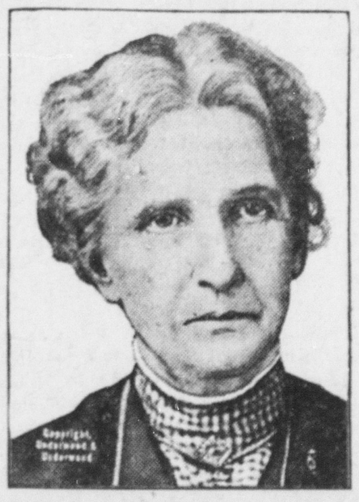
Major Coupal was summoned to the White House in the illness of Calvin Coolidge, Jr., the youngest son of the President, who passed away early in July, a victim of septic poisoning resulting from a blister on his foot.

The new White House physician formerly was curator of the Army Medical museum at Washington. He is an authority on bacteriology and pathology, and is president of the International Association of Medical Museums.

Major Coupal comes from Massachusetts, the home state of President Coolidge. He was born in Quincy, Mass., in 1884 and was graduated from Tufts college. He entered the Massachusetts National Guard in 1911 and remained in the regular army after the close of the World war.

Brigadier General Sawyer was called to active duty as physician to President Harding on March 12, 1921, the same day he was appointed a brigadier general in the Medical Reserve corps of the army. General Sawyer handed in his resignation in order that he might devote all his time to the Harding Memorial project, he announced.

She's Youngest Daughter of Revolution



Mrs. Angelina L. Avery of Willimantic, Conn., has the distinction of being the youngest living child of any soldier who served in the Revolutionary war. Her father, Solomon Loring of Hingham, Mass., was but a lad of fourteen years when he enlisted, serving as aide to Colonel Vost. Here he remained for two years, experiencing much active service. After the war he settled in Lebanon, Conn., and was married three times.

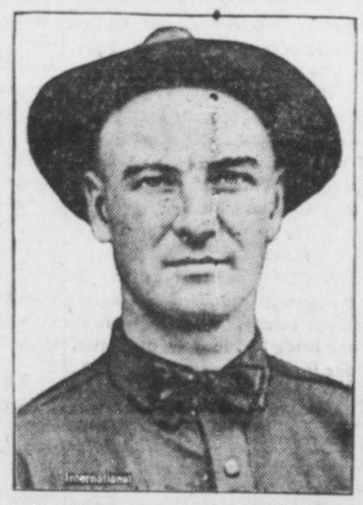
Mrs. Avery, his surviving daughter, was born on July 16, 1839. At that time the father was seventy-four. He died in 1842. His father also fought in the Revolution, serving eight years, dying in a prison ship after being captured by the British.

One of Mrs. Avery's greatest treasures is the hymn book her grandfather was using during service on Sunday morning in 1777 when he heard the drum beating "To arms!" Two hours later he was speeding on his way to Saratoga, N. Y., to enlist.

Mrs. Avery is one of the most interesting members of the little group of real Daughters of the American Revolution. She is honorary regent of the Willimantic chapter.

Mrs. Sarah Bosworth Bradway of Eastford, Conn., and Mrs. Abigail Strong of Morris, Ill., also have the distinction of being real Daughters of the Revolution. Mrs. Bradway, who is blind, celebrated her 109th birthday on April 30. Mrs. Strong is Illinois' last living Daughter of the Revolution and celebrated her 91st birthday this year.

Flees Turmoil in Rhode Island Senate



Arthur A. Sherman, Republican floor leader and president pro tempore of the Rhode Island senate, is one of the 21 Republican senators who have fled from their state and have found refuge at a mountain retreat at Rutland, Mass. Events leading up to their hurried leave-taking form one of the most interesting chapters in American politics, according to the opinions of observers.

Politics in Rhode Island had been at the boiling point since January 1. Then on June 17 the senate was plunged into the worst riot that ever occurred in the statehouse. A Democratic filibuster, initiated at the end of this free-for-all fight, was dramatically interrupted two days later, and the senate cleared of legislators by the sudden release of bromine gas fumes near the chair of the lieutenant governor. More than half of the members were temporarily incapacitated as a result of exhaustion following the 42-hour session, combined with the irritating effects of the gas fumes on the mucous membrane.

With only 14 senators present, the senate took a "recess," and almost immediately the Republican members left the state.

It is believed by many that the situation in Rhode Island may prove of national consequence in the coming election.

Mrs. Fairbank and George E. Brennan

The new list of the Democratic national committee members contains this: "Illinois—George E. Brennan and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank." Democrats will tell you that the whole list contains no more interesting item—and it is quite possible that Republicans and LaFolletteites will agree with them. For George and Janet make an odd and efficient combination. George, for instance, is being hailed since the Democratic national convention as the "Big-Boss." But the Chicagoan is not in "Who's Who" or in the "Blue Book."

Janet Ayer Fairbank is the daughter of Benjamin F. Ayer, who was one of the leading lawyers of Chicago. She is a college graduate and one of Chicago's Four Hundred. She has made her mark in the literary world. In 1912 she was western chairman for women of the Progressive party; joined the Democratic party in 1917 and was a member of the executive committee of the Democratic national committee. In 1921 she was chairman of the women's committee in the successful coalition judicial campaign. She is vice chairman for Illinois of the Woodrow Wilson foundation. She is president of the board of directors of the Chicago Lying-in hospital. During the war she was a member of the Women's National Liberty Loan committee and was in all but five states, organizing and speaking. She is the author of a play entitled "Three Years More," and a novel, "The Cortlandts of Washington Square."

BACK ACHY?

Lame and achy in the morning? Tortured with backache all day long? No wonder you feel worn out and discouraged! But have you given any thought to your kidneys? Weak kidneys cause just such troubles; and you are likely to have headaches, too, with dizziness, stabbing pains and other kidney irregularities. Don't risk neglect! Use Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

A Pennsylvania Case

Mrs. Lee Andrews, 215 Susquehanna St., White Haven, Pa., says: "I had a dull pain in my back and couldn't do much housework. My back pained all the time and it finally gave out and I could hardly stir around. I was nervous and always tired and worn out. My kidneys didn't act often enough. I used Doan's Pills and they cured me entirely."

Air Service Makes Picture Map of U. S.

Largest Aerial Photographing Ever Attempted.

Washington.—The largest aerial photographic mapping project attempted by any country is now under way in Texas and it is expected that when the work has been completed there will have been photographed 10,000 square miles. The time required in which to take the photographs, develop and fit them together into one large map is estimated at three months. This work is being done by the photographic section of the air service of the army.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chief of the air service, believes the making of maps is the most important peace-time work in which that service can be engaged, and says that these pictures are projects on which also the corps of engineers and United States geological survey are working. The importance of the enterprise may be grasped when one considers the element of time and the great cost to the country of the work. By aerial photography the saving in time is estimated at 75 per cent and 50 per cent in the cost of the survey.

The office of the chief of air service is receiving many requests from governors and other officials of state, including counties, asking that the services of the photographic section of the air service be utilized in state and county survey work.

Projects on which the army is now engaged include a map of Indiana and of Chicago and vicinity, 1,500 square miles. This work is being done by the army photographic section stationed at Channte field, Ill.

The men at Scott field, Mo., are making a 500-mile map of a section of Missouri, co-operating with the United States geological survey and the corps of engineers. Approximately 1,000 square miles of the Missouri river is being taken from Kansas City to St. Louis. Air section photographers from Fort Riley, Kans., are mapping 500 square miles in the vicinity of St. Joheph, Mo., working with the United States geological survey.

The air photographers also are cooperating with the corps of engineers and United States geological survey in Arizona, California, Hawaii and the Philippines.

The crew of the planes doing this work consists of a pilot and an observer, the latter expert in making map pictures. The officers are selected from those who have completed courses in experimental work conducted at the air station in Dayton, Ohio.

General Patrick expects to photograph 30,000 square miles during the current fiscal year. It is the plan to make a picture map of the whole United States and it has been estimated it will take from five to eight years to complete it.

The photographic sections of the air service are distributed throughout the country as follows: Fort Bliss, Texas; Langley field, Va.; Bolling field, D. C.; Maxwell field, Montgomery, Ala.; Chanute field, Chanute, Ill.; Wilbur Wright field, Dayton, Ohio; Mitchel field, Long island; Fort Riley, Kansas; Crissey field, Calif.; Scott field, St. Louis, Mo.; Kelly field, Texas; Post field, Fort Sill, Okla.; Lake field, Hawaii; France field, Panama Canal zone and the Philippine islands.

Dog's Good Character Saves Owner $5,000

Oregon, Ill.—Many prominent citizens of Ogle county appeared in court here the other day as character witnesses for Bowser, a dog, now deceased, and their testimony saved Charles Vogeler, owner of the dog, $5,000.

Vogeler had been sued by Katherine Clinton, who alleged the dog was responsible for an automobile accident in which the complainant and her sister suffered serious injuries and Bowser was killed. The women said he dashed out at their car and his body became entangled in the front wheels and caused the car to turn over.

The character witnesses testified that Bowser had a good reputation for peaceful and quiet habits and had never been known to run after a car. The jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

SWEDEN CARES FOR WAYWARD OR DEPRAVED CHILDREN

New Law Requires State Be Given Their Custody.

Stockholm.—Compulsory removal of wayward or depraved children from their homes into public custody, and subsequent supervision up to the age of eighteen, is provided for in a new law for the care of children which has just been passed by the riksdag.

The law further provides for public care of children who are found to be exposed to undesirable influence and in danger of becoming depraved.

Children removed from their homes by government inspectors and matrons in compliance with this law are placed in government institutions, or in good private homes in the country, where they receive expert training and can grow up in healthful surroundings.

Social service of a similar sort has been carried on in the cities of Sweden, especially Stockholm, for many years by municipal and state boards, who place the children in desirable homes far out in the country, and pay an annual compensation to these homes. In many cases a strong bond of affection grows up between these waifs of the slums and their foster parents, which culminates in legal adoption.

Under the new law every city and parish will have a special board for the care of children, including local pastors and teachers as permanent members, while inspectors will travel all over the country for the purpose of observing and controlling individual development. Thousands of country homes receive the poor children of the city as guests during the summer and send them back to their homes with cheeks round and rosy.

Nation-wide and energetic philanthropic work also is carried on by the Swedish society "Save the Children," the campaign culminating in an annual Children's day, when large amounts are raised to provide summer vacations in children's colonies by the seaside, and in some cases on islands specially reserved.

Sing Sing Has Largest Roster in Its History

New York.—Warden Lewis E. Lawes is about ready to hang the "S. R. O." sign on the Sing Sing door. With 1,447 state guests occupying these quarters, said to be the most choice of all the country's prisons, room is left for but a few more. It is the largest roster the penitentiary has had in eight years.

The crowded condition will not affect the persons now under Mr. Lawes' supervision, but it will be hard on the offenders who are sentenced to Sing Sing from now on, for the trip will be continued from the Ossining establishment to the less popular Clinton prison at Dannemora, where privileges are fewer, visitors rare and discipline comparatively severe.

MEXICO IS HAVEN FOR CROOKS FROM THE UNITED STATES

Officials Below Line Ignore "Gentleman's Agreement."

Laredo, Texas.—Notwithstanding diplomatic relations between Mexico and the United States have been restored, complaint is made by Texas border officers that it is virtually impossible to obtain extradition of fugitive criminals from Mexico. Such a voluminous amount of red tape must be unraveled that almost interminable delays result.

To such a degree is this true that the formality of applying for the extradition of an offender who may have sought refuge in Mexico is seldom observed. Instead, a friendly understanding exists between the peace officers and government authorities of the border states on both sides of the international line that they will exchange fugitive criminals without legal process.

Even this agreement is not always lived up to by the Mexican authorities, it is charged here. As a matter of fact, hundreds of offenders against the law who fled to Mexico in the last few years are living in apparent security against molestation in that country. All efforts to bring about their return to the American side of the boundary have proved futile, it is declared.

No blame is attached to the Mexican government for this. The authorities of that country are too busy trying to round up a horde of domestic criminals to pay much attention to foreign refugees. During the recent revolutionary period hundreds of desperate criminals were released from prison by rebels and are today roaming over the country.

KILLS HIMSELF SO WIFE CAN WED RIVAL

Said Insurance Would Give Them Start.

Detroit, Mich.—To open the way for her to marry the man she wanted, and in so doing furnishing $1,000 to help out his successor until he can find a job, Joseph Novicki, thirty-six, of 2563 Hammond avenue, so loved his wife that he took his own life.

Mrs. Tekla Novicki, twenty-eight, who admits she is in love with Tony Lausicki, a boarder, appeared pleased at Joseph's solution of the "eternal triangle" and intimated that she probably would marry Tony.

The domestic crisis, which had been shaping itself for some weeks, came to a head when Joseph came home to find his wife in tears. Weeping, she told him that she was in love with the boarder, Tony, whom Joseph had kicked out of the house a few days before.

But Tony had no money and no job. He, Joseph, had a job paying $10 a day. Therefore, Tony wouldn't hear of her leaving Joseph, because then neither could eat.

Joseph, in deep thought, entered the bedroom. A few minutes after he announced he had taken poison.

"The $1,000 insurance will enable you to be married," were his dying words.

But Mrs. Novicki believes happiness is farther from her reach than before. She realizes she loved her husband after all. She does not care for Tony now, and consequently she is heartbroken.

"I wish Joe were back again," is all she has to say.

Grieves to Death When His Wife Disappears

Atlantic City, N. J.—After grieving for weeks over the mysterious disappearance of his wife, from whom he never before had been separated in their fifty years of happy married life, Peter K. Palmer of 405 Trinity avenue, this city, died in the home that had become desolate to him.

Palmer, who was seventy-two years old, refused to be comforted by friends. He would not eat and sat virtually every night watching the front door of his home for the return of his life companion. He was found dead in his chair facing the door recently.

Mrs. Mary Palmer, seventy, the wife, disappeared on May 8. She told her husband she was going to Philadelphia to attend the funeral of a brother, but she may never have arrived in that city, as a thorough search by police failed to reveal any trace of her there.

The Atlantic City police combed every section of this city at the request of neighbors of the Palmers, who were touched by the aged man's grief.

Seals Menace Salmon Fishery of Pacific

Vancouver, B. C.—Destruction of one-sixth to one-third of the average spring salmon pack in the Fraser river by hair seals has caused local fishermen to fear the fish will become extinct and a large revenue be lost.

So clever are the seals that it is a race between them and the fishermen every time a bobbing cork on the net shows a salmon has struck it. The seals generally win.

Wolf-like, a seal goes for the throat of a fish, and usually a head is all that is left in the net. Fishermen have tried spreading a "blind" net, to protect the actual fishing net, but the seals, evidently learning the trick, drive salmon into the net to make capture easier.

Not only do seals live on salmon, but when their hunger is appeased, they kill for sport, tossing the fish out of the water as a cat plays with a mouse. A seal can throw a 30-pound salmon clear of the water, the fisherman declares.

Boy's Bow and Arrow Kills Trapped Bear

Orono, Me.—With three steel-tipped arrows, shot from a powerful six-foot bow of his own making, George W. Jacobs of Brockton, Mass., a freshman at the University of Maine, recently killed a 250-pound bear in the woods, ten miles north of Amherst. The bear was caught by one paw in a steel trap.

Jacobs, who acquired skill with this weapon as a boy scout several years ago, shot five arrows and three took effect. He made the expedition in company with Harry Jordan, veteran guide of East Eddington, as a result of the taunts of fellow students, who called him "Robin Hood" and laughed at his insistent claims concerning the effectiveness of his bow and arrow.

His exploit is expected to stimulate interest in archery in the university.

Fox Killed by Lightning

North Powder, Ore.—This section was visited by an electrical storm recently which did some damage. The Eastern Oregon Light and Power company substation was set on fire but was saved by the use of fire extinguishers. A silver fox, valued at $1,000, was killed by lightning.

A Precious Hen!

Minneapolis.—Police are trying to learn the antecedents of a common, ordinary hen bought liveweight in the market the other day whose gizzard yielded three emeralds and four .22-caliber cartridge shells. The find was made by Mrs. Betty Smilow. The stones are of considerable value, jewelers say.

FOR MIDSUMMER COSTUME; INFORMAL DAYTIME WEAR

UP AND down, around and around, this way and that, in riotous color, thus do stripes play a spectacular part in the modes of the day. Some of the wash silks and fine dress flannels look as if the striped tents of Arabia or the Bedouin headscarfs of their native chiefs must have been the source of inspiration so exotic are their fascinating colors. Not less handsome are the Roman stripes which so gayly fly the Italian colors in our most fashionable scarfs, ribbons and silken fabrics. Even our own humble awnings bear the proud distinction of having their stripes copied by Madame Fashion. All of which goes to prove the popularity of stripes this season.

The effectiveness of striped materials for midsummer frocks is set forth in the two smart summer models in the picture. Crepe de chine in varying stripes of blue, green and American Beauty is the chosen fabric for the gown on the seated figure.

The clever sports costume by its side is made of a camel's hair material striped in green, tan and blue.

Washable silks of shirting variety, especially accenting stripes, are greatly favored for blouses as well as one-piece frocks which in their making are simplicity itself. Many of these exploit lovely soft color combinations. There may be a stripe of bright color, narrower than the usual blazer, subdued by hairlines of some contrasting shade with perhaps black used between the gay colors.

Pastel striped tub silks define such exquisite combinations as pale green with white, the green stripes of graduated width; corn color on white, gray with white and in the striped materials black-and-white is especially good.

For informal dress models of striped silk are enhanced with lace and lingerie cuffs and collars with often cunning lace pockets. A patent leather belt, white or black, is worn with the frock of this description.

In making up the two-piece dress consisting of skirt and overblouse, it adds to the attractiveness to use the stripes horizontally in the blouse and vertically in the skirt.

Apropos of the fashion for stripes are sleeveless jacquettes made of bright striped fine flannel. The blazer stripes are particularly recommended for these. Bold red, blue, green and yellow on white feature in blazer-striped sportswear.

For every day and any day the silken frock remains the mode supreme. It has ever been thus. The soft rustle of silk has come down to us through the ages in poetry and prose which hails the days of "lavender and old lace" with tales of gentlewomen resplendent in grosgrain which "stands alone" or sweetly feminine in demure gray "surah."

In this age and generation it is canton crepe, flat crepe, taffeta, crepe-satin, faille, bengaline and hosts of novelty silk weaves which are making dress history which shall be read by posterity.

Years and years ago when "grandmamma was young" her "Sunday best" was trimmed in tucks and puffs, ruffling and shirring of the very same silk as the dress itself. In the fashions of today history repeats itself in terms of "self-trim." The smart present-day note in dress design is featured through intriguing plaiting, shirring, folding, cording, piping, and smocking.

We modernists differ from our revered ancestors in that we do not hold our silken frocks for "state occasions." We wear silk any day and every day, finding it the practical thing to do. Of course for informal daytime wear, we choose a conservative style, of which the model in the picture is a representative type. This pretty afternoon frock has its decorative scheme of flutings about skirt and sleeves, with snirrings at the waist worked out in material self-same as that of the dress itself. In the fullness of its skirt it emphasizes the fact that the bouffant silhouette is quite as fashionable as the straightline effects.

Speaking of the types of silk in fashion, the forecast for fall places special importance on bengaline and ribbed silks in general. These silks will be used not only for dresses but for coats especially.

Tucks, ranging from wide to pin, feature many of the frocks made of the smooth surfaced silks such as taffeta and flat crepe. Pin tucks are inset in panels and various motifs. A favorite employment of wider tucks is that of running them horizontally from neckline to hem of the fashionable tube silhouette dress. These straightline all-over tucked frocks fasten down one side of the front with a row of buttons supplemented with a plaited frill or cascade of lace traversing the opening from top to bottom.

Son Took the Wind Out of Dad's Sails

A shrewd old Yankee who had accumulated a fortune by strict economy, noticed his son had spent carfare to go a few blocks and deemed the expense a foolish one. That evening after dinner he called his son into the library, saying he wished to speak with him. "But first," he said, "I will turn down the light; we can talk just as well in the dark and it will save gas." As he went on explaining the value of economy he heard a fumbling and shuffling from the direction of his son's chair. Stopping his lecture he inquired: "Sam, what are you doing?"

"Father," came from the darkness, "I can hear just as well without 'em, so while we are sitting here in the dark I'm taking off my trousers to save 'em."

For the rest of the evening economics were not discussed.—Boston Transcript.

Doll's House for Czar

When a young man of twenty-four, Peter the Great of Russia went to Holland. He was working at different jobs so as to be better fitted to become ruler of Russia. In Utrecht he saw a miniature doll's house, furnished down to the minutest detail. In the library were paintings two inches square. Cabinets were filled with thumb-high porcelains from Japan. Special carpets were manufactured for this house, and the linen was woven in Flanders.

Peter the Great took a great fancy to this tiny palace and offered any price for one like it. The builder, a retired merchant, would not accept money for his handiwork, but offered to make one as a gift to the young czar. The lilliputian mansion, completed after 25 years of labor, is now in the royal museum, Amsterdam, says Mentor Magazine.

Got Her Clock Back

In "My Garden of Memory," Mrs. Kate Douglas Wiggin, the famous authoress, tells a story of the time when she was the guest of some friends, and was kept from sleeping by the ticking of a clock in her bedroom. Finally, she had to place the clock among some blankets in a drawer. Leaving early next morning, she forgot to tell the maid about the clock, writes Puck in London Tit-Bits.

Three months afterward, in Germany she remembered it. She would have cabled, but it seemed bizarre to say, after an interval of many months: "Clock buried in guest room between blankets in bottom drawer. Impossible to sleep with it! Forgive!"

Instead, she wrote, and by reply came word from her former hostess that her new chambermaid had searched for and recovered the clock.

Moslem Fast of Ramazan

In the Moslem world Passion Sunday corresponds with the first day of the month-long fast of Ramazan. During Ramazan, western customs, where they have been adopted, are set aside, and the more primitive native manners revived. The muezzin supplements his usual announcement of the hour of prayer with the exhortation: "Give food, O ye faithful, unto the orphan and the poor, the wayfarer and the bondman," and though the wealthy do not now, as in former days, stand at their doors and invite the needy to a well-laden table, Ramazan remains a time of peace, charity and hospitality.

Compound Interest

We often hear that Peter Minuet in 1626 paid the Indians only $24 for Manhattan Island. We are apt to think of this as a ridiculously small sum for what is today the most valuable piece of land of its size in the world; but we do not stop to think that if this original $24 had been invested by Peter Minuet at the rate of 7 per cent per annum and compounded every six months to date, it would have earned a sum equivalent to the assessed value of the entire city of New York, so it is said, including its streets, sewers, railways, subways, theaters, hotels, skyscrapers and palatial homes.—Thrift Magazine.

Edward Entrikin Dead.

Mrs. Edward Entrikin and little daughter Teresa, accompanied by the former's mother, Mrs. Francis Martin; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, Mrs. Thomas Martin, Mrs. Archie Irvin and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Frey were among those who were in Shamokin on Tuesday to attend the funeral of Edward Entrikin. Mr. Entrikin left Bellefonte in the early part of the year and enlisted in the U. S. army, becoming very ill soon afterward. He was admitted to the Fort Bliss hospital near El Paso, Texas, where his ailment was diagnosed as an abscess on the liver. Subsequently he underwent several operations but gradually became weaker in spite of all efforts to save his life. Toward the end, gangrene of the lungs, peritonitis, and other complications developed. His illness was the direct result of exposure, becoming exhausted while helping to fight a fire which destroyed a large barn and falling asleep without changing his clothing, which had become water soaked. The deceased was 20 years old last December 26th. He came here several years ago from Shamokin and was employed at the local silk mill, and later was night watchman at the Cadillac garage. Surviving are his widow, who was Miss Helen Martin, and daughter, his mother, one brother and one sister. Funeral services were held from the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Sarge.

Mrs. J. R. G. Allison Dead.

Mrs. Anna C. Runkle Allison, widow of the late Dr. J. R. G. Allison, of Millheim, died on Saturday night at 11 o'clock at the Centre Hall Hotel, the home of her parents. Mrs. Allison became ill while visiting in Kentucky with her only son, Gross, and was very sick there for about one month. Her sister, Miss Laura Runkle, then went to Kentucky and brought her to the parental home at Centre Hall, where she was ill for about a month being bedfast most of the time. Born at Centre Hill, this county, on May 28, 1868, she was a daughter of James W. and Rosetta Runkle, for years well known residents of Centre Hall. Her husband was the late Dr. J. R. G. Allison, who died four months ago. They had formerly resided at Northumberland and later at LeRoy, in Bradford County, but during the past nine years were residents of Millheim. Mrs. Allison was devoted to her home interests, was of kind disposition and had taken several girls into her home, partly rearing them. She was a member of the Eastern Star of Mifflinburg, and the Royal Neighbors of America of Millheim. She is survived by her aged parents; her son Gross, of New Castle, Ky., and one sister, Miss Laura, of Centre Hall. Funeral services were held from the home on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and burial was made in Centre Hall cemetery.

Lee W. Miller Dead.

Lee W. Miller, formerly manager of the local Western Union Telegraph Co. died on Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock at his home in Tyrone. His illness began last November when he contracted grippe. Lee William Miller was a son of William A. and Lulu V. Miller, born in Tyrone on July 11, 1896, in which town he was reared. Graduating in telegraphy from Valpariso University, Indiana, he was first employed in Akron, Ohio, then came to Bellefonte where he was a resident for several years. He was married to Miss Bessie McMullen, of Bellefonte, on April 29, 1918 and she survives with two sons, Chester Lee and William Alton; his parents and the following brothers and sisters: Chester, Forrest, Harry, Mrs. Frank Krouser and Mrs. Theodore Foust, all of Tyrone. Funeral services were held in Tyrone this Thursday afternoon and burial made in Grandview cemetery.

Isaac H. Wyland Dead.

Isaac Hinton Wyland, for many years employed in this vicinity as an iron worker, died on Saturday morning at Detroit, Mich., from pernicious anemia. Deceased was born in Bellefonte, a son of Daniel and Astasia Wyland, both deceased. Had he lived until August 31, he would have been 74 years old. He was twice married, his first wife being Sarah McKinley. After her death, he married Jennie Bullock, who also preceded him in death. Surviving are the following children: Benjamin, of Duncansville; Robert, of Irvona; Willis, of Bald Eagle; Mrs. C. G. Knipping and Mrs. Walter Rowan, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Calvin Huss, of Ilion, N. Y.; and E. C. Creighton, of East St. Louis; also two brothers: Benjamin, of Howard, and David, of Milesburg. The body was brought to Bellefonte and services held from the train on Tuesday. Interment in Union cemetery.

Harry R. Nash Dead.

Harry Rhule Nash, who was known in the Centre—Clearfield region as a police officer and detective, died at his home at Philipsburg last Wednesday, aged 57 years. He had been ill with neuritis, and during the last six months had been nearly blind. He was a member of the United Brethren church and the Reliance Fire company and the Order of Red Men of Clearfield. Besides his wife he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. John McTague and Miss Mabelle, and his aged mother, Mrs. Sadie Nash, all residents of Philipsburg.

William B. Krape Dead.

William B. Krape, one of Centre County's veterans of the Civil war, died on Tuesday, July 22nd, in the Old Soldiers' Home at Hampton Roads, Virginia, from infirmities of his age. He was 70 years and 22 days old. He was a native of Gregg Township and most of his life was spent in the vicinity of Spring Mills. He was a volunteer of the 48th P. V. He was twice married and one son, Frank, was born to the first union but preceded the father in death. The first wife was Mary McClintock and she subsequently married and is a resident of Lewisburg. His second wife was Margaret Stiver, a Centre Hall girl, who proceded him to the grave. William B. was a son of George and Anna Krape, both deceased. He is survived by four brothers and one sister as follows: Charles Krape, merchant at Spring Mills; Howard, Rebersburg; Alfred, of Centre Hall; James, Seattle, Wash.; and Mrs. Florence Rearick, of New York city. The remains were brought here on Saturday and burial was made from the train in Union cemetery at Farmers Mills.

George H. Richards Dead.

George H. Richards, one of Philipsburg's best known citizens, and for years an active figure in Democratic circles in Centre County, died at his late home at that place early last Saturday morning. He had been in poor health for some time, death being due to heart failure. He was born at Clearfield January 26, 1856, a son of George H and Anna McClellan Richards. He lived for a number of years at Osceola Mills. In 1875, when forest fires virtually wiped out that town he saved the lives of his mother and a brother who were surrounded by flames. Mr. Richards removed to Philipsburg in 1884, residing there until his death. He was a member of numerous lodges and other organizations, and a few years ago was a Democratic candidate for Sheriff. On October 15th, 1879, Mr. Richards married Miss Mary Bloom, who died in 1910. Surviving him are a son, Howard Richards, of Philipsburg, and a daughter, Mrs. Tyson Hoffner, of Trenton, N. J., also a brother, Ralph Richards, of Tulsa, Okla.

John Henry Rider Dead

John Henry Rider died at his home in Bush Addition on Sunday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock from complications. The deceased was a son of Abner and Caroline Rider, both deceased. He was born in Bellefonte on Sept. 6, 1861, and resided in this vicinity all of his lifetime. On June 29, 1882, he was united in marriage to Miss Alice Florey. He was a consistent member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was a skilled mechanic. Surviving are his widow and three children: William of Beaver Falls; Mrs. Van Jodon of Curtin street, and Russell, at home. One son, Charles, preceded his father in death. The following brothers and sisters also survive: James, of State College; William, Clay, Abner, West and Mrs. Sallie Eminhizer, of Bellefonto, George, of Adah, Pa. and Mrs. Lydia Hoy, of Lemont. Funeral services were conducted from the home on Wednesday afternoon by Rev. Wilson P. Ard and Rev. C. C. Shuey. Burial was made in Union cemetery.

Mrs. Mary E. Michaels Dead.

Mrs. Mary E. Michaels, who had been a guest at the Methodist Home for the Aged at Tyrone, died on Tuesday of last week following many years suffering from rheumatism, which resulted in complications. She was born at Karthaus, August 5, 1861 and was a daughter of the late Henry E. and Catherine Whitehill Hunter. One brother survives. Funeral services were held at the home after which the body was taken to Karthaus and further services held in the Methodist church there, both services in charge of Rev. Emerson Karns, D. D. Burial was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

W. O. Ellis Dead.

William Otto Ellis died last Friday at Williamsport, after a long illness. His wife, who was formerly Miss Blanche Bowman, and one daughter, Mrs. Erwin Hund, of San Francisco, Calif., survive him, as well as the following brothers and sisters: Lucetta, Emily, George, Bodo, Mrs. Charles E. Krape and Mrs. Otto C. Clinger, of Williamsport; Mrs. W. F. Conradi, of Bellefonte, and Luchen Ellis, of Philadelphia.

Mrs. Amelia Mease Dead.

Mrs. Amelia Mease died at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Woods, near Morgan Run, Rush Township, on July 14th, aged 78 years, 9 months and 10 days. She was a daughter of Joseph and Hannah Goss and was born in Clearfield County. Her husband, who was David Mease, preceded her to the grave some years ago.

Saul Knarr Dead

Saul Knarr, a brother of John Knarr of Howard, died on Saturday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harry Wagner, near Beech Creek. The deceased was a lifelong resident of that section. He was 86 years old and death was caused by infirmities. Besides his brother he is survived by six children. Funeral services were held on Monday, burial being made in Blanchard cemetery.

"The Government Should Control Public Money."

Says a paragraph in the platform of the radical third party.

There is no Such Thing as Public Money

Every dollar the government has was taken from the people in the way of taxes, or by borrowing, and it spends the revenue thus received as fast as it gets it.

Governments cannot make money. Time and again, all through history, nations have tried the experiment. Germany recently tried it, Russia tried it and their so called money proved worthless.

By public money is doubtless meant the deposits of the Federal Reserve Banks. But every dollar of this money belongs to the people. The government does not own, nor can it take one dollar of their resources.

They belong to the banks that are members of the Federal Reserve System and the banks owe it to their millions of depositors. You are probably one of these depositors.

Get it clearly in mind that the immense resources of this great country are owned by individuals, that what we call government is designed for the protection of society, and not to do business either by making so called money or running railroads or any other form of enterprise.

The less government interferes with business the more we prosper.

WHEN a lawyer's mind is wandering towards the cigar case, it's hard to keep it on his client's.

The suave, easy, self-possessed cross-examiner usually holds himself and witness in hand with a helpful little chew of BEECH-NUT—the favorite tobacco of thinker and worker.

Supreme Court justices, outdoor workers, expert craftsmen, athletes and business executives are never without it.

The biggest package of the best tobacco that ever flattered 10c.—a clean, pure chew for keen, sure brains.

Not a stem or impurity in a million packages and over 250 million packages sold in a single year.

Increased overheads haven't raised the price or reduced the quality—Makes 10c. swell with pre-war pride.

Found Strength by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Kankakee, Illinois.—"My mother-in-law always took your medicine for weakness, and then in the Change of Life it did her so much good that she induced me to take it for a weakness I had for a year and a half. It has strengthened me and now I have a nice baby boy. I do all my own housework now, and I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I have the opportunity. I am taking it again for weakness, as my family doctor has recommended it for this purpose."—Mrs. HARRY COULOM, 984 N. Harrison Ave., Kankakee, Illinois.

Real Evidence of Merit

For the relief of female weakness, pains and backache, nervousness and irregularities, with other troubles common to women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine.

Its worth is thoroughly established by such letters as the above. There are women everywhere, who, having received benefit, gladly tell other women about it. For sale by druggists everywhere.

The AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for This Department Supplied by the American Legion News Service.)

REGIONAL BILLETS FOR WAR ORPHANS

With the dedication recently of the American Legion's children's billet at Otter Lake, Mich., the Legion has gotten under way with a nation-wide program of child welfare. Specifically, the Legion intends to care for all the children whose fathers were killed in action or who died as a result of service in the American forces during the World war.

There are at present, according to experts, 5,000 waifs of war who are being denied childhood privileges because their fathers died in service. By the creation of regional billets the Legion intends to care for all of these. The plan outlined by the national child welfare committee of the Legion allows for expansion to meet the requirements ten years hence, when the peak load will be reached—35,000 of them.

The billet at Otter Lake, Mich., is typical of the Legion's method of handling this important phase of service work. It is neither an institution nor an orphanage. It approximates a home as far as it is humanly possible.

Instead of having one big dormitory, the way most institutions are run, the Legion has small cottages of from four to six rooms. Nine children at the most are housed in one building, where they are looked after by a house mother. The children dress as other children, with no semblance of uniformity. They attend public school, leaving in the morning, taking their lunch, and returning about five o'clock in time to play until supper time.

The Otter Lake billet, which is the first regional billet, now cares for 26 children, with three houses built and ground broken for two more. These children are of every extraction—Hungarian, Polish, French, Italian and the like. Many of them came to the billet in extremely poor health, emaciated and undernourished.

Overlooking Otter lake, one of the prettiest of Michigan's thousand lakes, the billet is ideal for health purposes and, under the guidance of Mrs. Eva Ingersoll, supervising mother, the food prepared is based on body-building needs. Dr. O. Johnson, the superintendent, looks after the health of the children and not one case of serious illness has been reported since the billet got under way.

The need for more room to handle the fatherless children is manifested by the constant requests for permission to send children to the billet. A waiting list ample in size has convinced the Legionnaires that they need more space. As fast as the money is available such expansion is taking place.

The Michigan billet was first begun as an activity of the Michigan department of the Legion, with help by the legislature. However, when the national organization of the Legion went into the problem, Michigan graciously turned over her billet to the national body.

The second child billet is now under way at Independence, Kans. John R. Quinn, national commander of the Legion, recently dedicated a 400-acre tract of land, where the second series of cottages will be erected. Kansas raised $100,000 to insure completion of the project by a state-wide drive for funds. The tract of land was the gift of Daniel Dabney, whose two sons were killed in action while serving with the American forces in France.

Not only does the Legion care for children in regional billets, but it also cares for them in childless families. Following precedents established by social workers, the Legion seeks about for ex-service men who have no families and who wish to rear one of the waifs of war, and allows them to adopt one. The Legion takes exceptional care in investigating circumstances so that the child will get the tender care rightfully due.

In other instances the Legion has found that the mother does not wish to be separated from her child. In such an event the Legion furnishes cash support.

The need for such welfare work is proved when it is known that the government does not compensate a widow sufficiently to insure adequate support. A widow with no children receives but $25 a month. With one child, she gets $35, and $6 for each additional child. As a result, it is necessary for her to work to support herself, and if her child is very young she must place it in a nursery. If the child is but a few years of age the Legion has found that it runs wild and, in many cases, the environment is such that it becomes a gamin.

The child welfare activities of the Legion are the most important, next to the care of the disabled, on the Legion's program of national service.

Legion Men Will Protest

Protests against granting citizenship to men convicted of various serious offenses will be made in future by the American Legion of Belmont county, Ohio. This course was decided on after papers were granted to several such men there. A committee was appointed to investigate the character of applicants for citizenship.

SUBMARINE YARNS IN BOOK BY SCOUT

The water gurgles with an unearthly gurgle overhead. Motors are humming aft. A chain rattles in the control room.

Within the tapering compartments of the gray-walled United States submarine all else is quiet. A strapping youth, seated on a three-legged stool, bends over a pad. And he writes away at wonder yarns for the kids who like real adventure on wave or in field or in air. Engaged in the most hazardous duty in the United States navy—service on a submarine—he doesn't think of that as adventure, but calls on his imagination for thrillers.

As he writes, his thoughts turn homeward to the children in the quiet homes across the sea. He thinks no more of his submarine which is running along submerged, scouting for the enemy lurking beneath the waves somewhere off the Irish coast.

Over in the mud of the trenches near Selcheprey, a young officer scans the lines of the enemy. He bears with honor on the battlefields of France a famous American fighting name.

Later the young chap in the submarine will publish a book. And the colonel will write a preface for it. For the lad in the submarine is Henry Beston; the colonel is Theodore Roosevelt.

The book, written by one faithful member of the American Legion and prefaced by the man who has been called the "Father of the American Legion," is ranked by Dr. John Tigert, United States commissioner of education, as one of the 20 best books for real American children.

"I knew that our wide-awake youngsters were sick of lollypop 'storykins for kiddikins' and bed-time tales," declared Beston who went down to the sea to do battle with the U-boat. "I felt that they were anxious for wonder tales told in the spirit of the sailor's yarns.

"I must have guessed right because Theodore Roosevelt encouraged me to keep on.

"You bet I am a Legionnaire," Comrade Beston continued. "I was a charter member of my post. I've been an officer in it. I believe in the Legion. It is the service man's best friend and is a growing force for good in American life."

Officials in Charge of National Convention

The American Legion from national headquarters, Indianapolis, announces that information relative to the 1924 national convention of the American Legion at St. Paul, Minn., September 15 to 19, can be secured by communicating with the following committee at St. Paul: General chairman, Judge Royal A. Stone, office, state capitol; information, H. A. Boomer, office, Independent Jobbers Supply company, 731 North Prior street; housing, S. L. Weiser, Jewell hotel; publicity, D. K. Baldwin, Ramsey headquarters, 355 Robert street; entertainment, E. T. Foley, 209 Gilfillan building; decorations, Commissioner J. H. McDonald, office, courthouse; finance, S. W. Dittenhofer, office, Golden Rule store; tickets, W. D. Bugge, office, St. Paul Auditorium; parade, Frank W. Matteson, office, state capitol; transportation, B. O. Johnson, 889 Goodrich avenue; auxiliary, Mrs. S. M. Ralston, 1360 Grand avenue; 40 et 8, Dr. N. G. Mortensen, 414 Bremer arcade.

All Claims Must Be on File Before January 1

Claims for all former service persons suffering from tuberculosis, neuro-psychiatric diseases, amoebic dysentery and encephalitis lethargica must be filed with the veterans' bureau prior to January 1, 1925, for presumptive service connection. Announcement to this effect has just been made by Watson B. Miller, chairman of the national rehabilitation committee of the American Legion, who states that claims should be filed through Legion posts or departments or with any office of the veterans' bureau.

Iowa Legion Men Set Pace for Many Others

Husbands outnumber bachelors nearly three to one in the Iowa department of the American Legion, according to statistics recently gathered by the Iowa Legionnaire. Sixty-five and four-tenths per cent of the Legionnaires own automobiles, and those few who haven't automobiles to get there in have radios that enable them to know what it's all about anyway. Eight thousand and more of them own radios. Enrolled in the Iowa department of the Legion are at least 50 per cent of all ex-service men in the state.

Summer Colors Now Are Worn by Oceans

Preference for Blue With Foamy White Ruffles.

Washington, D. C.—"The much-traveled Atlantic is putting on its usual color show for the summer tourist. It is exhibiting a decided preference for blue, with soft foamy white ruffles. Sometimes it is wearing sage greens, deep indigo, or royal purple.

"Globe trotters will find the Mediterranean and the Caribbean tricked out in sapphire blue, the Red sea in varying shades of henna, the Yellow sea in beige and tan, the Antarctic in olive green and the shallows of the Gulf of Mexico in a soft turquoise," according to a bulletin issued from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"In order to put on such a pleasing display of shade and hue, the seas have summoned to their aid many and varied hosts, notable among which are warmth and cold, sunlight and shadow, sand, silt, and possible volcanic dust, salt, lime, and various and sundry kinds of diatoms and algae.

"Absolutely pure water is a clear blue color because the blue rays of sunlight are not absorbed by the water as the red rays are. Thus the open ocean seems intensely blue. Distilled water has a greenish cast due to the impurities which still remain after the distillation. This makes it clear why the shallow water in bays and estuaries is green or yellowish green. One explanation of the olive-green of the ocean in the vicinity of the South pole is that it contains enormous quantities of diatoms in suspension.

When a Gray Gown Is Worn.

"Sometimes the ocean wears a gray gown, but that usually happens when the clouds shut out the sunlight and then in respect for the grim aspect of the frowning skies it subdues the tones of its garment.

"Two factors contribute largely to the blueness of the Mediterranean; there are few large rivers, which ordinarily bring enormous quantities of impurities, flowing into it, and there is a constant stream of salty water pouring into it from the Atlantic ocean through the Strait of Gibraltar. It is said by some oceanographers that the blue of sea water bears a direct ratio to its saltiness. As an example of this the band of tropical waters extending about thirty degrees on each side of the equator, where there is tremendous evaporation under a blazing sun, is cited. It is true that these waters are very salty and an exquisite azure in color. On the other hand, the Arctic and Antarctic waters, which are cold and less salty, are vivid green.

"The Yellow sea derives its golden tints from the sediment brought to it by the Yellow river and several other streams rising near the desert areas in western China. Scientists also believe that the billions of minute living organisms found in its waters helped give it its name.

A Yellow River in the Atlantic.

"In January, 1909, a peculiar phenomenon was observed in the Atlantic ocean. Running parallel with the warm clear blue waters of the Gulf stream from Cape Florida to Cape Hatteras, there was a yellow river three miles wide. It lasted for a few weeks and then faded away into the surrounding ocean. Some cataclysm on the face of the deep, probably of volcanic origin, had evidently set this yellow stream in motion.

"The dull reddish tint of the Red sea is imparted to it by millions of microscopic algae. A host of the minute Dinoflagellata sometimes will redden the ocean for miles.

"The lovely blue of the waters surrounding the coral islands of the South seas, which have long been famous in song and story, is said to be due to the calcium carbonate which is held in solution.

"The degree of penetration of light into water is a contributing factor in the color of various bodies of water. The Saguenay river, a tributary of the St. Lawrence from the north, is somber and impressive because its waters seem almost black. It winds through high hills which shut out the light and its bed is cut 600 feet deeper than that of the river into which it flows.

"In 1901, the sea off the California coast turned almost black, the waters of Santa Cruz bay becoming particularly inky, but no satisfactory explanation has ever been offered of the occurrence."

Dixie Court Says Wife Still Owes Obedience

Montgomery, Ala.—The age-old marriage vow containing the word "obey," was given an interpretation with "teeth" by the Alabama court of appeals when it upheld in effect the right of a husband to object to his wife's employment of adventitious aids to her supposedly natural beauty.

It is the imperative duty of a man's wife to obey, the court held. The wife in question had curled her hair against the expressed wish of her husband.

In rendering the opinion, the court also decided it not only was the right but the duty of the husband to fix the domicile of his children, irrespective of the mother's wishes.

Cardington Will Become World's Greatest Airport

London.—The cabinet's decision to establish an imperial airship service and to select Cardington, in Bedfordshire, as the home of airship research and experiment will make Cardington the world's greatest airport. It was here that the ill-fated R-38, which broke her back at Hull, was built, and her sister ship, R-37, now stands half completed in the shed. This colossal shed is capable of accommodating two such airships, has up-to-date works nearby a gas manufactory and palatial offices.

Veteran Lives at Grant's First Camp

Sole Survivor of General's Original Command.

Springfield, Ill.—Eight miles west of Springfield, on the public highway to Jacksonville, Israel F. Pearce, patriarch, veteran of Grant's army and participant in Sherman's march to the sea, lives in solitude on the land where General Grant pitched camp on his first day's march into the Civil war.

Pearce, the only man now living out of the entire regiment which went into encampment on this spot of ground the night of July 3, 1861, maintains a guard over the old camp ground and over "General Grant's tree," a large, peculiarly shaped black walnut tree under which Grant wrote his orders.

Raises His Flag Daily.

Every morning at sunrise the tattered old flag belonging to Pearce is raised from a 30-foot flagpole near his house, and every evening at sundown the flag is lowered.

Pearce acts as a guardian for this historic spot and is glad to relate its history to passing tourists, although the historical connection is known to few people, and no marks, save the veteran's flag, are to be seen on the land.

"General Grant's tree," some three feet in diameter, stands near the house. Here, Pearce tells tourists, he saw Grant, sitting astride a peculiar limb growth, near the ground, writing out the first day's orders. Grant's tent was pitched a few feet from the tree, and he once addressed the regiment from a spot near where the tall flagpole now stands.

"The first day's march of the regiment, the Twenty-first Illinois infantry, was started from Camp Yates, in this city, about 11 a. m., and the first camp site was reached about 5 p. m.," Pearce relates.

"The regiment was halted in columns of companies in the woods, arms were stacked and when wagon trains came into camp each company unloaded its wagon, arranged the tents by opening and spreading them on the ground, and at one sound of the drum the tents were raised; at two sounds ropes were stretched, and at the third sound, the stakes were driven and the regiment was under canvas in its first tented field.

Many Stragglers in March.

"The first day's march was attended with hardships, and there were stragglers and absentees. The punishment given was extra guard duty both for officers and men. The men made camp fires and cooked their first meal in camp at this time.

"During the first evening, officers' call was sounded and Grant, then Colonel Grant, talked to the men, emphasizing the absolute necessity of enforcing respect for the inhabitants of the country through which the regiment was passing. The captains of the companies were made personally responsible for the acts of the men."

Pearce was quartered both at Fort Henry and Fort Donelson, and on July 4, 1863, marched into Vicksburg with Grant and his army; just two years after the regiment left its first camp near the walnut tree. From Vicksburg, Pearce went with Sherman on his march to the sea, through the Carolinas and on to Washington. He participated in the grand review up Pennsylvania avenue at the close of the war.

49 Operations in 2 Years, His Record

Philadelphia. — Forty-nine blood transfusions within two years is the record of Charles Donnelly of Locust Gap, Pa., who is puzzling physicians in Jefferson hospital, where he is suffering from anemia. Donnelly submitted to the first operation in September, 1922, and since then has had a transfusion every two weeks.

His brothers, Frank, John, Joseph and Thomas, make periodical trips to the hospital, each time furnishing blood for their brother.

Donnelly said he was growing weaker since the last transfusion a few weeks ago and that he needed more blood. He said that besides his brothers, several students had offered to give their blood.

Campaign Costs Quarter

Davenport, Iowa.—Twenty-five cents made up the campaign expense account of H. Earl Fries, who won the Republican nomination for constable here against a field of seven candidates, he has announced. His itemized statement showed that the money was spent for an ice cream cone, a bottle of soda water and a package of cigarettes.

Tells Wonders of Wind Cave

Hay Fever and Asthma Sufferers Find Instant Relief at National Park.

Washington.—Wind Cave, one of the least known of the American national parks, in which sufferers from hay fever and asthma get instant relief, is described in a bulletin of the national park service of the Department of the Interior. The belief that the park was discovered by a farmer while stalking deer in 1881 is made known. The discoverer was attracted by a loud, weird whistling coming from a hole in a rock not more than eight inches in diameter, which was later enlarged by blasting, and now forms the present entrance to the cave.

Several theories are advanced as to the beneficial effect of the cave on hay fever and asthma, one being that it is due to the entire absence of vegetation in the cave and the other that it is because of the remarkably even temperature, which is never below 43 degrees nor above 47 degrees during the year. Still another theory is that there is an unknown ingredient in the air of the cave.

The Wind Cave national park, with an area of 10,522 acres, was created in 1903. Chief interest in Wind Cave lies in the masses of calcite, aragonite and quartz, and in the geodes, stalactites, stalagmites and a peculiar boxwork formation. At one point two geodes of large dimensions, which stand side by side, practically touching one another, differ so greatly in structure and content that they are believed to have been created thousands of years apart.

"Pop-Corn" and "Snowballs."

The walls and ceilings of the numerous passages and chambers in the cave are covered with formations of a remarkable nature. Describing them in a letter to the national park service, a visitor to the cave wrote:

"The pop-corn formation looks indeed like a lot of well-popped corn fastened to the walls and ceilings of the cave. In places the balls are smaller than peas, in others they are several times as large. The formation is pure white without the brilliancy that makes frostwork dazzle the eye. Akin to the pop-corn effect is the snowball. In various parts of the cave the walls and ceilings look as if boys had been snowballing them with balls just wet enough to stick and spatter.

"The frostwork forms the chief beauty of the cave. It is formed in the softest rock and in the upper parts of the cave. It is suspended or shoots up and out of the limestone in clusters of white tiny needles formed of infinitesimal crystals resembling pine clusters. The coarsest threads are not larger than needles, and they decrease in size until the formation resembles the finest cotton. Some of it, called mineral cotton by the guide, would deceive anyone away from the cave. One section of it, which has been named 'Noah's Beard,' is several feet long and white as snow."

The Wind Cave national park is situated in the Black hills of southwestern Dakota, 12 miles north of Hot Springs. The cave is believed to have served at one time as channels for subterranean waters which now follow other courses. The outlet probably is in the great spring at the upper end of Buffalo Gap, a few miles to the eastward, where the land is about 300 feet lower than the lowest part of the cave yet explored.

The cave illustrates not only the results of the solvent action of water on limestone, but also the redeposition of calcium carbonate of the limestone, forming the stalactites and various deposits on the walls. The boxwork, which is a characteristic feature of Wind Cave, was produced by the water depositing calcium carbonate in small cracks in the limestone of such a character that when the rock crumbled out, thin rectangular walls of the deposit remained.

The water which formed the cavern ages ago came to the surface through cracks which are now mostly covered by the earth washed into them. One of these which remained open led to the discovery of the cave. At times the continuous air current, which gives the cave its name, moves from higher to lower levels and blows out at the entrance openings. At other times the movement is in the contrary direction.

Wind Cave Game Preserve.

The Wind Cave national game preserve was established in the west corner of the park by congress in 1912 to provide a suitable home for a herd of buffalo presented to the government by the American Bison society. This preserve, occupying more than one-third of the park area, was chosen as the one best adapted as a refuge for the various species of big game native to the region.

The location on the southern slope of the Black hills was selected primarily because of its moderate elevation, comparatively mild winters, and abundance of feed. The fact that a famous wintering place of the buffalo was situated near Buffalo Gap aided in the choice. The tract is adapted not only for buffalo, but for elk, mule and white-tailed deer, antelope and possibly mountain sheep. The stretches of grazing land in the open groves of yellow pine forest form a picturesque feature of the higher ground in the park, while the timber in the small canyons affords shelter to the game during severe storms.

Capt. Rene Fonck, famous French war ace, who comes forward with the statement that Germany is preparing for a war of revenge by air, as evidenced by her gigantic peace-time plane production. Her planes can be changed quickly into fighting planes, loaded with machine guns and death-dealing gas. Captain Fonck asks for an alliance between British and French air forces to make sure of security.

Ocean's Only Precious Gem

The Pearl Is Usually an Insignia of Aristocracy, a Family Heritage.

Washington.—"Recent sale of a string of pearls for a reported price of more than eleven million francs serves to recall that the pearl is a paradox among precious gems," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"The familiar figure of speech, 'casting pearls before swine,' is no more violent contrast than the fact that a pearl is originated by a parasite.

"As one writer says: 'The ornament associated in all ages with beauty and riches is nothing but the brilliant sarcophagus of a worm.'

"Certain gems are affected by the newly rich, and sometimes are associated with vulgar display. Not so the pearl—it usually is the insignia of aristocracy, a family heritage above price. Yet a cross-section of a pearl shows it to be structurally just like the humble onion!

Limestone Deposit.

"In the language of the chemist pearls are 'calcerous concretions of peculiar luster, produced by certain mollusks.' In everyday language, pearls are formed in certain oysters when the oyster secretes and deposits around foreign particles, usually parasites, layer after layer of a limestone substance.

"If this deposit, known as nacreous matter, is spread over the inside of the shell 'mother-of-pearl' is formed; if it is formed on a 'hump' of the shell a 'button pearl' is the result; but if it is built around a parasite 'running loose,' as it were, in the soft part of the mollusk, then a genuine spherical or a pear-shaped pearl is made.

"Now it would occur to an ingenious-minded person that since an oyster tends to protect itself against foreign bodies by excuding nacreous substance around them that the oyster could be encouraged to make pearls to order just as bees are invelgled into making honey. Linnaeus, famous Swedish naturalist, proved to the Western world that insertion of tiny particles in oysters was equivalent to planting pearls but, as with so many of our latter-day 'inventions,' the Chinese had anticipated him by many centuries.

"For generations the 'culture' of pearls was a staple industry of several villages near Tai-Tsung, China. In early spring the 'pearl growers' would collect river mussels, open their valves with a bamboo stick and insert foreign bodies therein. These were placed in shallow pools, nourished by excrement, and after the lapse of months, sometimes of years, the mussels were collected, the pearls extracted, and the soft parts eaten.

"Sometimes the tiny insertions would be in the shape of an image and the result would be a pearl fashioned after the matrix. Among the most remarkable of these oyster art objects were the sitting Buddhas, specimens of which are on display in the British museum.

A Shawl of Pearls.

"The Gaekwar of Baroda has a sash made of 100 rows of pearls with a tassel of pearls tipped with emeralds. His highness possesses what probably is the most valuable jewel ornament in all the world—a shawl of pearls, ten feet long, six feet wide. This shawl, or rug, literally is woven of strings of pearls and its center and border are set with diamonds. It is worth several millions of dollars.

"A necklace of eight strings of pearls, which are said to be the finest specimens in India, and also worth millions, is owned by the rajah of Dholpur.

"Pearls too tiny for commercial use are known as 'seed pearls.' In India these are ground up, and because of their lime content, chewed with betel nut. The Romans, you will recall, though they prized pearls as ornaments, flavored their wine with powdered pearls.

"The coasts of Ceylon and India are the classic homes of the pearl, in later years the South Sea islands, Australian waters, the Gulf of California and the Caribbean have yielded pearls.

"The adventures of the pearl fisheries—the India divers who go armed with spikes to fight the sharks and the South Sea women divers who anoint their bodies with oil before they make their plunges—offered fascinating chapters of human custom. But that is another story."

CLAIMS DISCOVERY WILL PREVENT TUBERCULOSIS

Assistant Director of Pasteur Institute Says Experiments Have Been Successful.

Paris.—Doctor Calmette, assistant director of the Pasteur institute, announces the successful inoculation of young animals against tuberculosis in a series of experiments, the result of more than thirty years' work. The process is vaccination by living cultures of tuberculosis, the bacilli having been artificially inoculated.

"Attenuation" is produced by cultivating bacilli in uninterrupted series in cow bile. After thirteen years' culture in this manner the bacilli became absolutely inoffensive, but retained its anti-toxin powers in the bodies into which it was injected.

Doctor Calmette first obtained his harmless tuberculosis bacilli in 1921, and began vaccinations. The first experiments were on calves produced by tubercular cows. In every case when vaccination took place within the first fifteen days the calves remained perfectly healthy, although they were continually with tubercular animals. Afterward experiments on children showed complete success. Two hundred and seventeen babies have been vaccinated and are perfectly healthy.

Grapefruit Full of Bills

East Rochester, N. H.—The Rev. Levi F. Cook, pastor of the Free Baptist church, and a brother of Alonzo Cook, state auditor of Massachusetts, who has been seriously ill, has received a novel gift from members of his congregation. One of the parish stopped at the Cook home the other day and left a grapefruit, elaborately decorated with blue ribbon. The interior had been removed and replaced by a large roll of bills.

First Dollar Makes Three Trips Home in 35 Years

Danville, Ill.—Forty-two years ago M. C. Miller, former local man, earned his first dollar here. He marked his initials on the coin, which was issued in 1882, the year of his birth. Later he parted with the silver piece while at a circus in Bristol, Va. In the 35 intervening years the coin came back to Miller's hands three times, according to statements made in a letter to Miller's friends here.

Thirteen years after the first parting the coin was given to him in Danville in payment of car fare on the city car of which he was a conductor. A short time later he lost the dollar.

Some time ago a tourist buying gasoline in Indian River City, Fla., where Miller is now located, presented him the dollar for the third time.

The coin evidently has had an easy experience, for it is well preserved and nearly as bright as it was at the time of its birth, in 1882.

PETTING PARTY COSTS MERCHANT PRETTY FIGURE

Aged, Infirm Man of 83 Is Made Victim of Alleged Conspiracy Plot.

Cambridge, Mass.—A "petting party" for which he paid $362,000 in cash, stocks and bonds, was described in the Middlesex Superior court here by Edmund D. Barbour, eighty-three years old. Suffering from heart trouble, infirm and hardly able to see, Barbour tottered to the witness stand and told his story in the case against Daniel H. Coakley, disbarred Boston lawyer, and William J. Corcoran, former district attorney of the county, on trial on charges of conspiracy to extort money from Barbour and others by means of threats between 1914 and the present time.

Barbour, a Boston china merchant, told the court that he has never been the same since the occurrence—that his body became infirm and his mentality was shaken. The affair, he testified, occurred with a "Mrs. Daley" in his office.

The incident, according to the witness, occurred in 1916. Barbour said he had known "Mrs. Daley" for ten years before that. One day in July, 1916, he testified, she came to his office," he said. "While she was there," he said, "I embraced her and we had a petting party—just a petting party, your honor, and nothing else."

Saw the Head of a Man.

The Old Stuff.

Suddenly the witness explained he heard a noise over the transom and saw the head of a man who said he was a policeman. "I was all excited and didn't know what to do. But while the man was still in my office Mrs. Daley made the suggestion, which I accepted, to go see Mr. Coakley who would be able no doubt to straighten the matter out."

Barbour testified that when he reached Coakley's office only two hours later he found not only Coakley and Mrs. Daley there, but a man who said he was Mrs. Daley's husband.

"I told Mr. Coakley the whole story and he said that I should return at a later date and he would then be able to tell me more definitely what he could do for me," the witness added.

By the time he got through paying "resentful, but unidentified detectives," "lawyers" and the "injured woman," Barbour testified that he had expended $362,000. This amount, he said, he delivered to Coakley in cash, stocks and bonds.

Corcoran is now under a five-year sentence on other blackmail charges.

Loses All His Clothing in an Electric Machine

McFarland, Cal.—"A rag and a bone and a hank of hair," together with the paddings of flesh with which Dame Nature adorned his frame, was the extent of Maynard Schrack's raiment, following a mishap in which his clothing was caught in the drive belt of an electric drill at Colonel's garage. Being of a retiring disposition, it is said that Schrack went home garbed in a barrel, a blush and a nettled expression.

Schrack was operating a drill when his clothing caught in the rapidly moving belt. The belt pulled in all directions but one and Schrack pulled in that one. His socks and shoes were about the only articles left whole when the struggle ended.

Laborer Inherits Million

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—Albert Nelson, who has worked as a day laborer on a farm for nearly thirty years, left here recently for Boston, Mass., to take over $1,000,000 of an estate left him by an uncle. Nelson was one of five heirs to the $5,000,000 estate. Lawyers have sought him for years.

40-Pound Wolf Shot

Prairie du Chien, Wis.—A 40-pound wolf which had been the terror of small stock and poultry in the town of Seneca, was shot by D. B. Ames, Ferryville, after lying in wait seven days. On the first day he captured two young pups, but the mother hid the remainder of her young away in the woods.

ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER A GUARANTEED RELIEF

"I have arranged with all druggists here, as well as in all other towns of the U. S., that every sufferer from Asthma, Hay Fever, Bronchial Asthma or difficult breathing can try my treatment entirely at my risk," Dr. R. Schiffmann announces. He says: "Buy a package of my Asthmador, or cigarettes, try it, and if it does not afford you immediate relief, or if you do not find it the best remedy you have ever used, take it back to your druggist and he will return your money cheerfully, and without any question whatever. After seeing the grateful relief it has afforded in hundreds of cases, which had been considered incurable, and which had been given up in despair, I know what it will do. I am so sure that it will do the same with others that I am not afraid to guarantee it will relieve instantaneously. Certainly more positive proof can thus be demonstrated than a 'free sample' could possibly prove. Also sent on same guarantee, per parcel post, C. O. D., or on receipt of price, 65c, if not kept by your druggist, by addressing R. Schiffmann Co., 1734 N. Main, Los Angeles, Calif."—Adv.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness are oftentimes symptoms of kidney trouble.

Don't delay starting treatment. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a physician's prescription, obtained at any drug store, may be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

Get a medium or large size bottle immediately from any drug store.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

FARM CALENDAR

Timely Reminders From The Pennsylvania State College.

THRASH EARLY — Don't stop the thrashing machine to attend a family reunion or a picnic. Every day counts in the battle of the wheat grower against the angoumois grain moth.

TESTERS' SHORT COURSE—A five day course to train cow testers to take charge of cow testing associations in Pennsylvania will be given by the dairy department of the Pennsylvania State College from August 11 to 16 Dairy experience and ability to handle figures are requirements for entry. Write to the dairy extension department at State College for information.

SPRAY FOR THE PEACH MOTH—It is time to spray again for the oriental peach moth as most of the eggs have been laid or will be laid during the next week. Apply a spray of nicotine sulphate and self-boiled lime sulphur now, and again in two weeks. Cool weather has delayed the development of the first brood so that there is not going to be as many broods of the moth this year. At most, there will be only four broods even if the fall is unusually long and warm.

GARDEN GREENS—This has been a better season for greens such as spinach, lettuce, and early celery, than for the fruiting vegetables such as tomatoes, peppers and eggplants. Those who heeded the advice last spring in these columns to plant a succession of greens so as to have a continuous supply during the summer have had an abundance. Now is the time to sow fall endive, lettuce and cress.

DAMAGING INSECTS—The pear slug and fall web worm are doing considerable damage throughout the state. The control measure advised is to apply a spray of three pounds of arsenate of lead in 50 gallons of water. Apply at once for the web-worm for when the caterpillars get large it is hard to control them.

OVER THE COUNTY

The Harpster brothers, Ira and Samuel, prosperous farmers at Gatesburg, sold a bunch of sheep last week, and while delivering them to their destination, two bucks made war with each other. When the smoke of battle cleared away one had its neck broken.

Mike Palm, Philipsburg's renowned athlete and sportsman and former Penn State star quarterback, has been given a contract to coach the backfield men of the Georgetown University football team. Head Coach Little, of the University, said the contract would keep Mike on the coaching staff for one year. He is widely known through his athletic and sports activities, and will be a valuable addition to the Georgetown staff.

Farmers in this section who waited had ideal hay weather last week. Large quantities of the choicest hay were housed as a result. The hay crop is unusually heavy, the timothy being both tall and thick on the ground. There were very few barns in all this section that had hay of any quantity in them when the haying season opened, so there was an abundance of room for storage. Many farmers are busy this week cutting grain.

Farmer C. T. Crust, who resides east of Centre Hall, for two weeks was laid up with an infected eye, caused by some foreign substance fastening itself to the right eye ball. While this enforced lay off occurred at a bad time for a farmer, Mr. Crust had good neighbors who came to his rescue, cutting the grass and making it into hay. He is now on a fair way to recovery, but it will be some time until he will be able to remove the shield from the infected member.

FOR VACCINATION WORK

Physicians to Render Free Service to School Children.

Dr. J. L. Seibert, County Medical Director, has been notified by the State Secretary of Health, Dr. Charles H. Miner, at Harrisburg, that the following County Physicians have been appointed as official Deputies to revaccinate free of charge, school children who have undergone two or more unsuccessful attempts at vaccination against smallpox. The appointees are:

Dr. George H. Woods, Pine Grove Mills.
Dr. G. S. Frank, Millheim.
Dr. H. S. Braucht, Spring Mills.
Dr. E. H. Harris, Snow Shoe.
Dr. L. E. Kidder, State College.
Dr. W. J. Kurtz, Howard.
Dr. David Dale, Bellefonte.
Dr. Robert Jackson, Osceola Mills.

School children living in the rural districts who have been twice unsuccessfully vaccinated, or those who had been admitted to school last term on an official temporary certificate must be revaccinated by the County Medical Director, or one of these official Deputies, who will grant a temporary certificate which will admit them to school for the current school year. In cities, boroughs, or townships of the first class having organized Boards of Health, this official revaccination must be performed by the Board of Health physician.

Teachers or school principals are not allowed to admit children to school unless they present, or have already filed, a certificate of successful vaccination, or in the case of unsuccessful results the official temporary certificate, which must have been issued after July 1st, of the present year, on which date temporary certificates issued during the previous school term became void.

The County Medical Director has pointed out the fact that school teachers must be careful in demanding proper vaccination certificates. A certificate stating that a child has been vaccinated is not sufficient. The vaccination physician must certify that an examination of the child made not less than eight days after vaccination disclosed a vaccination scar, or cicatrix indicating a successful vaccination. If this vaccination cicatrix is not in evidence, the physician cannot legally certify, and the child must be revaccinated.

The Supreme Court in Lee vs March 203, Pennsylvania, Page 351, has ruled that it is obligatory to use the vaccination certificate forms prescribed by the State Department of Health. These forms are furnished free of charge to all physicians practicing in the second class townships, and any other form cannot legally be accepted by the teacher or principal.

Citing the law, it is also explained that teachers may not accept certificates issued by the family physicians or School Medical Inspectors exempting pupils from vaccination because of alleged physical disability. Cases of actual physical disability for vaccination are rare. Generally speaking, any child that is well enough to go to school is a fit subject for vaccination. If physical disability is claimed, such cases must be passed upon by the County Medical Director or one of the officials above named.

School Medical Inspectors are directed by the Secretary of Health to verify the existence of the required vaccination cicatrix and pass upon the validity of vaccination certificates filed.
